

New Musky & Pike Lure Bodies

Premium Quality Brass Components

Lakeland Incorporated manufactures the finest quality brass lure components for the fishing tackle industry. Two new Musky Lure Bodies are available in Styles 107 and 108. Each component is precision machined out of solid brass, and manufactured to our highest quality standards. Style 107 has a weight of $\frac{3}{8}$ ounce, and Style 108 weighs $\frac{3}{4}$ ounce. The new bodies have been designed as interchangeable components to allow for custom weight selections from $\frac{3}{8}$, 1, or $1\frac{1}{2}$ ounce total weight. Lakeland has the widest selection and highest quality brass bodies available to compliment all types of weighted tackle requirements. Adding Lakeland quality brass components can easily enhance your existing tackle line.

Lakeland's brass components are available in four plate finishes of brightly polished brass, nickel, black/nickel, and gold. This special plating process creates a highly reflective finish, and produces a brilliant flash for added fish attraction. Lakeland's chip resistant color finish is available on brass components. Transparent and fluorescent colors can be added to beads, bodies, and worm weights to enhance your spinner baits. Paint pattern colors, innovative air-brushed techniques, along with our custom capabilities provide our customers with the best quality brass components available and will add more value to your finished component.

At Lakeland, manufacturing the finest quality brass components for the fishing tackle industry is our only business. Lakeland is one of the largest manufacturers and continues to offer more choices of size, pattern, shape, finish, paint, and custom application than any other lure component manufacturer.

Lakeland customers expect the best service in the industry and we exceed their expectations with a commitment of continued innovation. Be sure to contact Lakeland to meet your fishing tackle component needs.
